OF COUNSEL
LAWRENCE E. POPE

~~PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL~~

The Honorable Howard H. Baker, Jr.
Chief of Staff to the President
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Howard:

This letter has a very simple message: Do everything you can, for the sake of the President, for the sake of the country, and for the sake of your political future, to stay out of the controversy involving the Congressional hearings and investigations of sales of arms to Iran. Among other things, if you follow this advice, you will not accept invitations to appear on television programs such as "Meet the Press" and "Face the Nation" while these hearings are continuing.

It is in the interest of the President because there is little that you can do that would add to his support. Therefore, he has little to gain from your participating in the controversy. On the other hand, if you do become involved, and the public perceives you to be a major defender of the President in a situation where the public thinks the President is inconsistent and has little credibility, then, in turn, you will lose the credibility that you have right now and will not be able to be of assistance to the President when other issues arise where you could be very helpful.

For these same reasons, it is also in our nation's interest that you stay out of this controversy. You have been wonderfully received as a superbly qualified White House Chief of Staff. Where the President is under attack personally, the Presidency must continue. The people must have confidence in those who are guiding the Ship of State. Next to the President, you are perceived as the person who has the most to do with steering our country through these troubled waters. It is absolutely imperative that your credibility be maintained so that if the President is under continued fire, there is another person in whom the public has confidence and whom they will believe when leadership needs to be shown on other issues.

Finally, it is in your personal interest for the possibilities beyond 1988. Assuming that there is a Democratic President elected in 1988 (and this is at least a 50/50 possibility), the person who would be the most logical to lead a Republican resurgence in 1992 would be Howard Baker: He would be logical for all of the fundamental reasons in selecting a candidate for President (which I have mentioned in earlier strategy papers to you), and to all of these could be added the fact that he could help unify the Party, having already served as Chief of Staff for President Reagan. However, if Howard Baker were to be tainted by the Iranian arms sales investigation (and no one really knows what the outcome will be of that investigation), one of his major assets--his independence and his credibility--will have been lost.

In January, 1974, there was an analogous situation that arose when Gerald Ford, who had been appointed to the Vice Presidency by Richard Nixon, started speaking out to defend President Nixon in the face of all of the allegations of the Watergate investigations. I wrote Gerald Ford and delivered to him personally an extensive memorandum (dated January 28, 1974) in which I urged him to stay out of the controversy. In particular, I said that if he continued to be involved, it would:

"...drag Vice President Ford into the quagmire along with... President Nixon. This Gerald Ford cannot afford to let happen, and even more important, the Republican Party cannot afford to let this happen, and most important of all, the people of this country cannot afford to let this happen.

"There is one issue above all in this country: Integrity in government. At least up until now, Gerald Ford has scored very highly in this issue. But as soon as he starts putting himself in the same camp as the advisors of President Nixon, he runs the risk of erosion of his overall popular support on this crucial issue.

"Here there is a problem: On the one hand, Vice President Ford naturally wants to be loyal to his colleague, Richard Nixon, the man who was responsible for appointing him to the Vice Presidency. Yet, on the other hand, he wants to preserve his own independence of action and maintain the stature that he has with the American public as a man of overall great integrity. How can he do this?"

(The memorandum then went on to give some specific suggestions as to how this could be done.)

I believe that analogy is applicable today in your situation. You, personally, cannot afford to be dragged into the quagmire of the Iranian arms sales investigations. Moreover, the Republican Party cannot afford to let this happen to you, particularly because you would be the person best able to lead the Republican Party back to victory in 1992, if the Democrats win the White House in 1988. And most important of all, the people of this country cannot afford to let this happen.

For all of these reasons, I strongly urge that you do everything you can to remove yourself from the Iranian arms sales controversy.

Best regards.

Sincerely,

David W. Belin

Dear Mr. Soens:

Thank you for your recent message.

It was good of you to tell me where you stand on these significant issues. You have no idea how helpful it is for me to hear directly from the American people. I will share your comments with the appropriate members of the White House staff.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Howard H. Baker, Jr.
Chief of Staff to the President

Dear Harry:

Thank you for your kind invitation. I am honored that you would think of asking me to participate in the "Tennessee Day" ceremonies in Philadelphia on July 12.

Regrettably, the heavy demands of my schedule have forced me to decline your kind offer. Please know, however, that you have my best wishes for a successful and enjoyable event.

Warm regards.
